About This Game

Inevitability is a game where you can build your own starships part by part in a massive randomly generated universe. With eight different factions spanning four alien races you can help them or plunder them for scrap and new parts!

Other features include:

- Sandbox mode- Explore the cosmos with unlimited resources and no threat of being raided by angry factions.
- Community Ships- Upload your ship in the ship building menu and others will see your ship exploring the cosmos in a future update!
- Technology Tree- Upgrade your fleet of star-ships and stations with new parts that you find throughout the universe.
- Play the game how you want- If you want to be an economic powerhouse making smart trades for new parts and drones that mine for your automatically or a ruthless space pirate that kills everything it comes in contact with you can do it!
- New free updates constantly- We plan on supporting Inevitability with new features for a long time and have some big plans for future additions.

- From the community- Extremely receptive to the community. Every one of our updates includes some features either inspired by the community or directly from them. We love hearing for you guys!

0.04 Hooks

What brings the adventurers to Forstor Nagar? Is it such an inauspicious time? The city is remote and travels slowly from within its borders.

- The party is seeking out Mathinder. Mathinder is a master of a particular craft and he knows the methods to easily produce the desired items. He should likely be artistic and not a simple fabricator or another magical spell.
- Mathinder is the keeper of important information or a Prestige Class or to decipher some esoteric codex. He is the last known knowledge.
- A third party desires Mathinder's services. This patron has the sole purpose of infiltrating Forstor Nagar on the orders of a paladin's superior or a wizard's former master, or a monk's abbot. Alternatively, they might be an old friend of a character's or a figure out of a character's backstory who has a point of honor or obligation.
- The PCs are the recipients of a prophecy that requires them to accompany the characters' base. They may not be aware of the prophecy, but their response when the heroes ask them to accompany them.

1.00 A Bridge Over...

The Setup

GM Warning: This encounter (and the entire module) is highly involved; it is strongly recommended that the GM thoroughly understand the entire scenario beforehand.

- Beginning the Encounter
- Handout - A Bridge Over

The Environment

Light: The area has bright illumination. As you emerge from the tunnel, the glow of the sun off the glacier and the waves makes the ice a translucent blue. The wind is stiff and salty, and the shouts and thundering impacts of siege engines fill the air. A long bridge of ice stretches across a deep blue channel of water, frosted with white caps. Across the channel, a small ice shelf, littered with a few beached fishing vessels and a small, crewed catapult stand just next to the bridge.

Wind: Strong winds (13-20mph) are present. This is a disadvantage to ranged weapons. Perception checks for hearing flying creatures must land or fly.

Temperature: The general temperature is cold. Far above them, stationed on your side of the ice sheet, is another artillery post consisting of another catapult. The two...

So slow, I want a refund!. It's a really cute little game but needs more to it. Getting up and down stairs could be a problem but it was entertaining and kept me busy for an hour =3 It should worth playing again with someone just for the giggles. All in all, great retro vibe and I hope it becomes the stepping block to greatness for the developers.. Good fun party game with friends, if you're ever bored and wanna play a good game with some friends this game you can come to at any time especially with the varied maps.. Good video editor, but crashes very often.. Get a Vive, Xbox One controller, and decent pair of noise-cancelling headphones.

Play while standing up and holding the controller. Put a contemporary political podcast on.

Lose yourself in the greatest cyberspace-like experience since Rez.

The game is not without issue\u2014the main one is, sometimes the game hangs, almost always when you die by flying into an asteroid at high velocities. Because of the way the game is made, this hang causes the game to stop rendering while it resolves crazy collision stuff or whatever. This is pretty much always when you die, so it's not a HUGE issue, but it would be great if this could be fixed. Plus, the game is written from scratch in a custom engine, so it's hard to hate it.

Other than that, the game is pretty much perfect. I love the aesthetic, and the roguelike-like repeatable gameplay.

I've fantasized about VR games with vector graphics on the inside of a sphere for years\u2014it's great to see that it's as awesome in practice as it is in theory. (I'm working on something kind of similar!)

TL;DR must-buy for Vive and other VR headset owners. koishi broken but overall fun. Why did I buy this and why does it cost money?. TL;DR: Awesome party game if you have many friends.

At first, I thought this game was boring playing single- and two-player games. After playing a 7-player game now I know that this game gets much better with more people playing. We all enjoyed it even though the input lag was terrible on the projector we used (not a problem with the game). I will recommend using more than one keyboard when playing a 4+ player game. Setting up a game with many players is fast and anyone can participate because the game is so simple.

Love this card game! Nicely implemented into its own game. The game is pretty solid so far, great crafting system. it can be a little difficult to figure out but once you get it, its really awesome.. I have so much love for this game. The character powers, outfits, level design, story and music is all cute as hell. 10/10.. Although I am not really a fan of flat landscape (I like mountains to much), this scenery is outstanding. Very dense "cultivation" (autogen) with still very high framerates are making flying over Florida a real pleasure. Well worth the money compared to other flight simulator addons.. Played it for a bit. It's okay.
